

Paediatric EEG

Patient information Leaflet

April 2020

An EEG tells the doctor what is happening when you look, think and close your eyes. This helps us to find out how your brain is working.

The doctor will rub some gel on to different parts of your hair and head. The doctor will then place a small wire on to each piece of gel. This does not hurt.

Here is what it will look like:

You will need to sit still for about 30 minutes, but there are books you can read and DVD's to watch whilst you have your test. Or if a hospital play specialist comes with you, they might have an iPad they can bring to play on.

During the test the doctor might ask you to close your eyes. They might ask to blow bubbles or they might shine a light in your eyes.

If you would like assistance from the play team or if you would like to ask any questions you can ring 0161 922 4846/ 5252

If you have any questions you want to ask, you can use this space below to remind you
